I am looking for the best way to achieve the below process in code. The processing should work for all the locations in the list. For each location a. Read the config and split into directories b. From each directory read a list of files c. Reindex the documents from the file list from each directory Hope this is a clear enough. Any recommendations appreciated. Regards, A: If you're comfortable with python then I would look at Irony and libstemmer for loading/indexing your data. This article is really good: and this one: Given that, if you're currently using Solr, it's probably best to stick to Solr. package pprof import ("testing" "github.com/stretchr/testify/assert") func TestGet(t *testing.T) { zippedProfile := []byte(Profile({ "count":1.34, "count.rate":1.34,
